DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 10/18/07 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 17-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Paul et al. (U.S. Pat. 5,814,088 hereinafter "paul").

4. Regarding claim 17, Paul discloses that the cardiac stimulator collects lead impedance data (e.g. Col. 5, ll. 1-8), stimulation threshold data (e.g. Col. 11, ll. 14-20), and time from implant data (t_0 ; Col. 10, ll. 2-3). Paul further discloses that the stimulator has a microprocessor that is programmed to process the collected data and based on the specific data determines if a lead event occurs and adjusts the output and various other criteria (see Col. 11, ll. 14-22).

5. Regarding claim 18, Paul discloses that it generates a warning for the patient (e.g. Col. 11, ll. 1-11).
6. Regarding claims 19 and 20, Paul discloses that the lead failure that causes the warning could be electrode dislocation, a micro dislocations, a partial lead fracture, or shunting (e.g. Col. 11, ll. 20-23).
7. Regarding claim 21, Paul discloses that the microprocessor determines a moving average to determine if a lead event has occurred (see Cols. 11-12).

Response to Arguments

8. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 17-21 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
